

UNIVERSITY
OF WOLLONGONG
AUSTRALIA

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Law

FACULTY OF LAW, HUMANITIES AND THE ARTS

- Continuing Appointment

The School of Law delivers a high quality award-winning LLB degree program, specialist postgraduate course programs, and supports a strong cohort of research students. It has an established reputation for innovative, applied and interdisciplinary law-related research across law, culture and society.

The UOW School of Law is offering the opportunity for outstanding people to contribute to delivering high quality law programs, providing students with an exceptional experience, and engaging in world-class legal and interdisciplinary research.

This position will contribute to the teaching, research, governance and community/professional engagement activities of the School by strengthening the Faculty's expertise base in the teaching program and by adding research expertise and experience to the School's Legal Intersections Research Centre.

This position will teach across all levels of the Bachelor of Laws (LLB) degree and other law subjects offered by the School of Law. Key responsibilities include subject coordination, administrative and governance roles and responsibilities within the School of Law, and engagement with strategic priorities. Teaching takes place primarily at the University's Wollongong campus, but attendance may also be required for program delivery at UOW's campuses in Liverpool, Sydney, Southern Highlands, Shoalhaven, Bateman's Bay, Bega.

You will be prompted to respond to the selection criteria as part of the online application process. You will be able to save your application and submit at a later date, any time prior to the closing date of the position.

For further information about this position, please contact Associate Professor Cassandra Sharp +61 0 4221 5532 or Mr John Littrich +61 2 4221 3730.
